The Opportunities

Indiana University Bloomington (IU), a top public research university, is pleased to announce a national search for the position of Director of Counseling and Psychological Services. Through innovation, creativity, and collaboration, the Director will have the opportunity to provide campus-wide leadership, mental health expertise, and the strategic vision to enable optimal utilization of Counseling and Psychological Services (CAPS) within a comprehensive and integrated Health and Wellness program. This position offers a tremendous opportunity to foster creative strategies and innovative solutions to address the ever-changing mental health needs of a large and diverse residential population of approximately 47,000 undergraduate and graduate students.

IU is seeking a visionary and experienced clinician and administrative leader with an entrepreneurial spirit and a demonstrated record of effective supervision, operational, and management experience. CAPS emphasizes support for diverse student populations and a commitment to inclusive programs and services. As an institutional leader with a focus on mental health priorities, the Director will provide a vision for the future and will foster strong partnerships with colleagues in Health and Wellness, throughout the University, and with external community partners to support student success and well-being. The successful candidate will possess a strong commitment to supporting diverse student populations; the ability to lead and inspire a talented team of dedicated mental health providers and create opportunities for professional growth and team building; and an in-depth understanding of the psychological challenges and mental health needs of college students.

Department Information

The Division of Student Affairs is focused on building a strong foundation to ensure every student's Indiana University experience is positive, safe, healthy, and meaningful. Division staff and 22 departments aim to help students navigate their time at IU, providing the tools they need to be successful in school and after graduation. Students are our priority, and their health, safety, and overall well-being are our core mission.

Counseling and Psychological Services ("CAPS") is proud to be a department within the Division of Student Affairs and is located physically within IU's Student Health Center. The Division is committed to promoting learning and respect by integrating diversity, equity and inclusion in all programs, interactions, and partnerships. We commit to creating and maintaining an inclusive environment where all people are respected, valued, and affirmed so that they may know they matter and belong at Indiana University.

Job Summary

The Director of Indiana University's Counseling and Psychological Services (CAPS) will direct and administer the oversight of student engagement, patient care, staff supervision, quality assurance, and mental health outreach initiatives. The Director will report to the Associate Vice Provost for Student Affairs, Health and Wellness and will be a key member of the Division's senior leadership team.
